Sites like these are typical. The victims become the culprits, and the culprits are made out as victims. Those on death row are there for a reason.

comments: I come across this site looking for info on the death row as i live in england don't know much. These prisoner's write that they will never get to do the things they wanted to do when they were younger, but why didnt you guys think of that before you did those crimes? Im saddend at the fact that day by day younger inmates are taking to the death row and it can only mean the world is getting a worse place. Please can we say no to the murders, drugs and crimes people are doing everyday and look to the future because this world was not built for any of those reasons. God bless comments: The death row inmates are scum. They do not need to have any more time on earth. I don't want to share my air with people that think it's o.k. to take someones life. Think of the young kids,moms,dads, and friends that suffered by someones sick twisted mind. I have just read a book about 2 lovely girls by the name of Elizabeth Pena (16) and Jennifer Ertman (14) They had NO Say in their murder. The 5 boys that killed them were and are sick, sick boys. Of all the boys only 1 have been put to death. It says in the bible, "an eye for an eye" or has people forgot that. Alot of people say forgiveness and you can forgive. But to let them live.They did not think about the victims they killed. They did not think about the families. They did not think of their families. They only thought of themselves. Why should we think of them??? Maybe people should read the book Pure Murder written by Corey Mitchell. Or pick up books on so called parents that abuse and then murder their babies. How would you feel?

comments: i have cried and cried as i read your comments especially when i read about the woman that lost her father (farley charles matchett).
 if i would just imagine it would have been my own father i would have taken my life, too.
 i live in germany, thank god far away from all this unfairness but it hurts to read that other people have so much pain and go through very hard times.
 i would love to write to an inmate but i am scared in a way because i have heard of several things that can happen if you start liking someone in death row, for example he abuses your honesty.
 i always wanted to move to america, even my aunt and her family live in chicago, but it scares the crap out of me when i hear how many innocent people get punished. because i have seen how fast you can get mixed into something criminal.
 that means it could be me too , right?

let`s imagine someone wanted to kill me and i would stand in front of him and would think: either i am going to die or the other person. of course you first think of your own life. thats how fast it can go.

if one of my family members would get killed, he would deserve to stay in prison a lifetime. but not to get killed by the state.
THAT IS WRONG

i give my prayers to all the prisoners and family members and hope that at least their families stick to them.

it would be nice if someone could reply to my fear writing an inmate. so i know if i have to be afraid of anything or not. because i would love to write to them and at least bring some laughter in their lives.

Then after the criminal leaves courtroom after being found guilty they are killed then and their, no long days of waiting for appeals just strapped down and put to death.

comments: Ending the Death Penalty for me would end this choice of revenge and hatred that does more havoc than anything else. The havoc of not being humane, killings of the innocent issues, and were no forgiveness exist. True murderers will be judged by God, matter of fact He also states, that murderers will not inherit His Kingdom. So this law, is immoral, and doesn't honor God's laws on that fact, and His "Do Not Kill" commandment. This DP is angering God. Executions donot stop the murders. Guilty murderers should be put in jail for the rest of their life. Those caught up in circumstances and the mental ill, should be shown justice and treated differantly. After reading your letters, I am at peace, where you are at peace. God's plan not mine. His way, is not our way. Once I read a remark "Soul sit down" So profound as some things we need to leave alone especially when it come to judging. I am glad that you have forgiven an forgot the old self. If only you had been evangelized earlier. I think Society failed you too. Thanks for those tools of wisdom. In suffering, I just reckoned with "who am I not to suffer? Praising God for your testimony, see you later.

I had an uncle murdered a couple years back and even though I dislike the man who murdered him, I still would hate to see him put to death for it. I am a 23 year old, college graduate and I am having sex and am not married. I am committing a sin. Why am I not arrested. A sin is a sin. Shouldn't I also be on death row. Murder is a sin, having sex and not married is to. So why aren't I on death row like a murderer?

comments: I have a really hard time accepting a death sentence anywhere in the United States. If there has only been one person who has been executed and found to be innocent later.....that's one too many. That person could be my son or my brother or my father. Killed for something he didn't do. There is never going to be a perfect solution but until the system is perfect.....it has to stop. We've come a long way with DNA and other means to find the guilty party. I have to believe that 99% of the people who are executed are guilty of their crimes. But that 1% undecided is just too much to overlook. I could never sit on a jury that has to decide a man's fate (life or death). That's God's work....it isn't ours. There has got to be a solution to this. There has got to be a way that we can punish, but not take that final step by condemning someone to die. As a tax payer, I would much rather pay the cost of feeding and housing a convicted felon, innocent or guilty, but not have to live with deciding his fate. I couldn't live with that. That isn't my job. For Jesus said on the cross, "God forgive them for their sins" ...May God Bless all death row inmates for I have a father there...

Daddy used to tell me all the time that i was a princess because i was the decendent of a king...him. That always made me smile and made me feel special. He held all three of us girls on a pedestal. He was so proud of his girls! Every chance i got, i went to visit him with my husband and our daughter.He always would tell me that when my little girl got bigger that she was gonna run me up the walls....i wish he was here so he could tell me "i told u so" smiling...i miss my father so very much. i love my father so much...i was so attatched to him, and to thisday i still have a hard time dealing with him being gone. we didn't have enough time together. we didn't laugh enough or talk enough.he didn't lecture me enough. he was the only someone who i had that i couldn't live without, and now that he's gone, i've been trying to cope with living.when things get hard for me and i don't have an answer to my problem, i'm not able to pick up pen and paper or go visit because JUSTICE stole my father, my heart,my comforter, my problem solver, my friend....my everything from me!!!! Justice is suppose to fix things and make things right....it is not suppose to be a criminal too...to hell with justice..i don't believe its real...its just a word that the government uses to sugar coat their wrong doing...to make it sound good and look good. when i see real justice happening..then maybe will i believe in it again...untill then..hmm.what has this world come to...killing in the name of justice????that does not sound right...i know and everyone else knows that its not right!!! Justice took my father away from me....as my father would say...justice is forever "number 1 on my shit list!!!!!!!!!!" I LOVE U DADDY...I'LL FOREVER MISS U....

Beauty is you in so many ways:
The warmth of your beauty, brightens my Day.
When I feel lonely I think only of you:
And I say to myself, these feelings are true.
I know that your beauty, flows deep within:
And all that's been broken, your love will mend.
This beauty of yours, is totally unique:
It's much more valuable than proceless Antiques.
This beauty of yours captured my heart:
I've had those feelings right from the start.
Cause never before have I known such love:
I'll cherish it always I know it's my duty.

This beauty I speak of yours by right:
 Since birth you've made my life sunny & bright.
 You have brought Happiness to me beyond a doubt:
 And this love and beauty I cannot live without.
 There is nothing more beautiful than you on this earth:

I cannot express what your beauty is worth.
 There is not enough money or treasures of gold:
 O'equal in value your love & beauty Holds,
 Your love to me is all I know, without you in my life
 I'm worthless & cold.

Hi, I'm a british guy living in Australia and just happened upon your words listed on this site. I only found your name by chance, and your words have given me a new perspective on the death penalty.

You also made me realise how precious freedom is. On this side of the fence we carry it round with hardly a second thought. I strive to do this no more.

I just wanted to say hi and I sincererly wish you the best. Keep writing, your words and frankness flow really well and your words are a credit to you.

America has alot to answer for, and it seems will continue to do what it likes and not anything people do makes it veer course in its path for the greenback.

Keep writing.

comments: I would like to say that it is very difficult to have a loved one on death row for something that he did not do. Many of you who have not experienced any problems with the police you will never know how easy it is for someone to be framed with murder. A so called voluntary statement can be so easily coerced. Initials forged as well as a forged signature by investigators. I have written proof this has happened to a death row inmate. The hardest thing about it is that if your attorney did not bring it up at trial and your appellate attorneys do not pay attention to those details and don't bring it up, you lose your case and lose your life for something you did not do and your only hope (your attorneys) were the only ones that were able to help. Time is limited to prove your innocence. With a life sentence you would be able to prove the injustice and some day know that you will come home where you belong.

Remember, that injustice does occur and many prisoners are innocent. Our justice system most definitely broken!!!!!!

If you gave a hoot about the person who committed the crime especially if it was rape and/or if it involved a child it would make more sense to want them to have the death penalty as opposed to being tortured by the other inmates. I personally want my brother who did rape and kill many (too many to count and not charged for all) little girls (he is a serial rapist/ murderer) to be put to death not so much as I do feel he deserves it (which he does) but because I do not like the thought of him having to suffer at the hands of another. Two (or more in his case) wrongs do not make a right. Let GOD worry over the point of their crime and realize if the person is innocent like they claim then like the saying says only the good die young. GOD knows the truth let him resolve it not you or me and instead of years on death row I believe the max should be two years and put them down do not drag out the suffering the inmate endures

Anyone that takes the time to read his case will understand just how flawed the Texas Justice System is. Kinda funny that even Court TV is running a show on it. It's called Wrong Man and is based on people wrongly convicted and facing the Death Penalty in Texas. How can anyone live with themselves knowing they ordered someone to be killed with no DNA evidence proving they're guilty.

Legal system resembles bad parent

Anybody who ever watched "Law and Order" knows what circumstantial evidence is and how damaging it can be in a court of law. This kind of evidence indicates somebody committed a crime based on the surrounding circumstances of behavior, background, motive, location or lack of alibi.

Sometimes we put people to death because a jury believed a case prosecuted on just such evidence. It's our human nature to make decisions based on what looks good or what looks bad.

I once saw an interesting exchange between a prosecutor and a defense attorney in a court drama.

"Juries aren't stupid," the prosecutor said.

"You must be arguing cases in a different court of law than I am," the defense lawyer replied.

The people who serve on juries are most certainly not stupid, but there are never guarantees when the human element is involved. After all, the factors that lawyers consider when selecting a juror are little more than, well, circumstantial evidence.

Because of this frailty in our justice system, specialized legal research groups have begun to spring up, such as Centurion Ministries and the Innocence Project. These groups revisit cases, often of long-forgotten inmates with few resources, where the forensic evidence still exists that put them in jail for long periods of time and some even on death row.

Armed with the new weapon of DNA testing and other improvements in the collection and analysis of forensic evidence, they are finding a surprising number of people who really and truly "didn't do it" no matter how bad they may have looked.

Brandon Moon did 17 years for a rape that postconviction DNA testing proved he didn't commit. He was misidentified by an eyewitness and test results of the evidence were flawed.

Herman Atkins did 11 and a half years for a crime post-conviction evidence proved he didn't commit. The victim failed to identify him until after she was shown his picture on a wanted poster for an unrelated crime. Having your face on a wanted poster looks really bad. People will believe you are capable of anything.

One inmate who spent 17 years on Texas' death row was released in 2004 after prosecutors acknowledged that the factors used to convict him of arson were proven to be unreliable. A less happy ending occurred for another inmate who was executed for a 1991 fire that killed his three children. The Innocence Project posthumously presented credible evidence that the fire was mislabeled as arson.

Our legal system faces the danger of becoming like a parent who doesn't feel too badly about punishing a child for something he may not have done on the grounds that there is most surely an unpunished deed somewhere in the closet.

comments: Regardless of the crime which put these people on death row, they deserve humane treatment. They are someone's loved one. They are mothers, brothers, fathers, sisters.. I realize some committed horrible crimes but a worse punishment would be life in hell for their eternity.. Which is prison. There is no suffering after death. A greater punishment would be waking up everyday haunted by the memories of the crime which put them there to begin with. To me, life in prison is far worse than any punishment that can be given. Not to mention, the justice system is made up of humans who make mistakes. Many times people have been proven innocent years later through new technology. If they are put to death, how can you give that life back and say you made a mistake.. You can't.. Another innocent person died at the hands of the law due to human error, yet they are not criminally charged. There is only one man who can make that call and he doesn't walk upon this Earth and doesn't make mistakes. Shouldn't he be allowed to carry out his will as he sees fit? Could you live with yourself if you were the executioner and you found out at a later date, you killed someone in cold blood and they were innocent? His blood is on your hands for eternity. How would you stand before your God on your judgement day? How could you live with yourself everyday knowing what you had done. Problem is, the justice system is so calloused they could be careless. It's just one more bed on the row that can be filled to insure job security. And, they live with no regrets. How can someone be so hate filled and without conscience? This is a sad world we live in. The justice system is no better than the murderer. They are one in the same.. Shame on You!!

They are murders too, just on the other side. It never can be right. Never ever. And yes some people (because there are also people in the death row which are innocent as the pastence showed us.) did a very bad crime but does not everyone deserve a 2nd chance? I do believe so. comments: So, let me get this straight. You don't believe in the death penalty. Do you assume all these men on death row are innocent, all victims of "socio-economic decay?" Just read the entries, according to them, they're all innocent! What would be the alternative? You also assume the manner of death the victims endured was a better death than waiting for months or years on death row. I guess we will never know as they didn't have their day in court to truly express the horror of the end of their lives, that which was taken prematurely from them through no fault of their own. Victims, according to you, should have no rights. The lines are even blurred as to who is really the victim here. Rape, torture, burned alive... This sounds like a horrible way to go to me. I would want my death avenged. You would too. Imagine the victim being your child, wife, mother, grandfather, sister. Would you look at the murderer and say, "you know what? I think you're still a really nice guy, you're just being discriminated against because you're black, poor, homeless. Let me get you a cup of coffee and let's talk." Are we not responsible anymore for our actions? What would it take for these men to learn from their mistakes? Would you hire one to babysit your child? Take your wife to the airport? Deliver pizza to your sister's door? Provide home-care for your ailing grandparent? We have special places for these horrible folks, it's called death row. Mistakes happen, innocent people die, that we cannot avoid nor deny. This is rare though, compared to how many really are captured and guilty, and someone has to speak for those whose voice has been taken away, who will do that? Those victims and families had no say either in their deaths. Eye for an eye, that's what we say.

Sincerely,

Concerned, legal, married & hetero, voting, white, working in Texas!

What don't you people understand? The people on death row have already committed murder . . . they have nothing to lose by lying and convincing everyone they have repented/changed/improved and will never do it again. They have proven their ability to kill others, to take the most important people out of someone else's life, and they are very likely to do it again, either in prison or out. It is unfortunate they have families that care for them. The murderers knew the consequences of their actions. They are the ones who neglected the effects on thier loved ones. Period.

Reicht es denn nicht, das einer sterben muss. Dann entscheidet der Staat die Todesstrafe. Dann wird doch wieder jemand getötet. Als ob es nicht genug wäre, das schon einer sterben musste. Ich hab jetzt ein paar Sachen hier gelesen... Die Briefe die die Todestraktinsassen schrieben.

Ich muss sagen, ich fas geheult. Es sind auch nur Menschen. Ich denke das Sie ihre Tat nicht "abarbeiten" können, aber sie zum größten Teil wieder gut machen können.

Die Länder, in denen es noch die Todesstrafe gibt, sollten sich Gedanken darüber machen, was sie da tun.

Einer kann nicht viel dagegen tun (gegen Todesstrafe).

Aber wenn viele dagegen Kämpfen, kann man es schaffen.

you make not get this in time

Hey man- hopefully you'll get this before tomorrow night.. well hopefully you'll get a stay of execution and an appeal- your lawyer should argue it is cruel and unusual punishment to execute you without being abl(violation of your 8th amendment right, guaranteed by the United States Constitution). They may not be REQUIRED to grant you an appeal- but it's worth a shot. Unless you don't want to try and appeal There are worse people than you who have committed much worse crimes that went 20 years or more before being executed. Do you have remorse for what you did?
That is what is most important, I would say. If tomorrow was my last day, I'd make sure to try and be at peace with myself and the family of the person I had killed. Anyway man, make them get you a really good last meal if it's your last day too- hopefully they'll do that for you. It's the least they could do, right? Any maybe a six pack of beer. If you get this man give me a shout.

comments: I used to feel the same way as you, and never even gave inmates a second thought (lock them up and throw away the key)..What would happen if you were in the wrong place and time say tomorrow? and found your self on death row? for a crime you didn't commit? Don't say its stupid it has happened and it may happen to you. Every day is a fight to surive in there who would you turn to? who would you talk to? You should have NO rights as you say.. so your left to fight every day for your LIFE on your own... It could happen, Think what would you do and how would you cope? Would you want to talk for an hour to some one who understands like me and many people on here, would you not want us to fight for your life? Prison is not the answer..prison makes an inmate worse my husband must not show aggression have you ever thought how hard that would be not to show aggression in prison? what would you do sit there and take it or fight? Every day is a struggle and a fight to survive for my husband its worse than the death penalty. You say he gave him self up..Is that a good thing or a bad thing? In my opinion its a good thing and a start in the right direction.. You ask me to respect your opinion? I respect every ones opinion..I am against the death penalty and am on this site coz that's my opinion..What are you here for? what are you hoping to find? Talk and let out that anger and hatred your feeling towards this person may be? dont bottle it up help to put a stop to crime in the first place by teaching people teaching children that form are society the right and wrongs of life before it comes to this... I do feel for your loss make no mistake in that and i am sure every one against the death penalty feels the same way..

And it is stupid to say we have all done things wrong and ask if we all deserve the death penalty? have you murdered anyone? or raped a small child? There are different punishments for every action. It is not like we give them the death penalty for throwing rocks or childish acts. And a murderer needs to take his punishment and man up the way he did when he was the one killing. I respect your opinion, so respect mine. They need no rights.

B4 you judge,understanding what and why? Some have been abused and not been shown love,some been used as punch bags and left to starve when just a child..We learn from are parents how to act..if were abused in some way by a parent thats all we know...You say there monsters and deserve the death penalty? How do you know for SURE...there guilty? NO one is 100% sure of that..The death penalty is an easy answer to rid soicety of people with mental problems thats suffered at the hands of there abusers..and go on to abuse them selves and even kill..Put a stop to child abuse! teach children how to love teach them how an adult should act..If we start there we may put an end to the loss of LIFE....

comments: I was one of the jurors in the trial for one of the losers on this website. Would you like to know what he did? A sweet trusting 14 year old girl was on a pay phone at a corner store, asking her friend to come pick her up. Then she said, never mind, I see some friends of my brother and they say they will give me a ride. The five men (4 adults & one juvenile) took this poor girl to a park, gang raped her, stabbed her repeatedly and left her in a creek to die. She gathered the strength to drag herself almost to the top of the hill to where someone could help her, but it was just too much for her and she died. While I can feel sorry for the circumstances of the killers' youth, that is no excuse for cruelty like this. Yes, we put this man on Texas death row. No, I am not sorry!! The bleeding hearts on this site, like the clueless German school girl who was doing a school project on the death penalty, amaze me. What if this had happened to one of your relatives? Now this man is now writing sappy poems about angels and butterflies.... give me a break.

Like i said before my cousin was murdered at subway.it was by an ex employee and his cousin. They broke in and shot her and her manager. Shooting her in the head why she was down on the floor screaming for her life. He had the chance to let her live. And he chose not to. She had 2 kids and a husband. Lots of family and friends. Her dad had just dropped her off at work and was on his way down the street to the senior center. When he got ther a driver for the center asked him which subway Mickell worked at and he told him that he heard on the radio that two has been shot and killed there. it was a matter of minutes. The denists office heard her screaming so loud and the shots. She had the most beautiful funeral. Now the killer is requesting pen pals. hesays he has never been a violent person and never will be. That is a lie!!! he should not be able to make a friend, he does not deserve to have any human contact with anyone. He needs to be a man and live his sentence out on death row and should not appeal any decision to over rule the verdict. Thanks Mike for understanding that until you go through something like this it may not effect you the same to think this crap is wrong and the government should stop this enترنت access to killers, petifiles and kidnappers. They have access to our children that way. None of us are truely protected from these monsters until all contact with people is stopped. I will continue to sign the guest book with deyermination to have it stopped. Good day to all.

comments: Its good here Mike and Frankie, you already keep the inmates like animals and keep them safely enough so they cannot kill again.

And along with the argument pro Death Penalty "he/she never kill again" (and in Texas you are not even able to make sure that you give lethal injections to the guilty persons) always " killing's too good for them " goes with. So you fall down on a ashamed level like a killer you kill to satisfy your bloodlust in revenge. There are better ways in life.... !!!

To the people of other countries and also the US citizens who write such tripe as "...a better man", "I adore everyone on death row" and "(they have) strength and dignity", I suspect you would be singing a different tune if it had been someone you loved who had been brutally murdered by one of these human animals. You literally nauseate me. The death penalty IS "the ultimate deterrent" and that CANNOT be argued against. They will NEVER again murder anyone. No, the death penalty isn't right....killing's too good for them. You don't want to be executed? Well, don't come to Texas and murder someone, simple as that.

I was not surprized to read about the mistreating of inmates by prison staff - jet shocked again and deeply, my thoughts are with those suffering out there, hoping to survive - waiting to die...

Non of all that is fair in any way and it has absolutely nothing to do with justice.

No matter how long someone is jailed he/she cannot give back what he/she has taken (and thats not the point, at least in my experience). We give and we take form each other - we nerver give back, never to the same person, never on purpose. Everything else is a lie. The one who needs our help will find us and we respond. Thats all.

I know nothing about you and nothing about your suffering, but thats what I can say about myself.

God bless you, A.

I have a really hard time accepting a death sentence anywhere in the United States. If there has only been one person who has been executed and found to be innocent later.....that's one too many. That person could be my son or my brother or my father. Killed for something he didn't do. There is never going to be a perfect solution but until the system is perfect.....it has to stop. We've come a long way with DNA and other means to find the guilty party. I have to believe that 99% of the people who are executed are guilty of their crimes. But that 1% undecided is just too much to overlook. I could never sit on a jury that has to decide a man's fate (life or death). That's God's work....it isn't ours. There has got to be a solution to this. There has got to be a way that we can punish, but not take that final step by condemning someone to die. As a tax payer, I would much rather pay the cost of feeding and housing a convicted felon, innocent or guilty, but not have to live with deciding his fate. I couldn't live with that. That isn't my job.

Sincerely, Drue Moon, Livingston, Texas.

They are not just death row inmates they are my friends, I would like to say if you feel like writing a row inmate do it but remember these men are human do not judge them do not ask them about their crime if they want you to know they will tell you. They look forward to your letters after a while if this is not something you want to do long term don't do it. I myself find myself looking forward to their letters as they do mine. I have decided to just today take on another row inmate, they have done a crime and are paying with their life we should not forget them. I wish that the death penalty did not exist but it does, most of these men and women are forgotten after a while. One of my pen pals said to me I have done wrong and I cannot take that back I came here as a child and I will live here as a man. I have learned to love and be loved by you and your family. For this I have more than I ever had in my life. Thank you Petra for this site and may God Bless you and yours.

the death penalty should be abolished everywhere period. it is inhumane and in my eyes as a resident in a democracy highly illegal.

if legal then lets put every serving member of the armed forces who ever killed anyone and every other person too. this is so mind bending that a government can legally kill someone but we the people who vote to elect them have no say in these executions forgive me for rambling but i get so upset at the torture of these men and women that can go on for decades. im proud to be english where we have totally abolished the death penalty but ashamed of the times when we allowed it and the innocents who died.

comments: My name is Marion Bernadette van der Walt and I am writing from Australia. I was introduced to people on death row through my impulsive decision to look for a pen pal via the net. The first name I clicked on was a young man named Clinton Lee Young aged 22 who is incarcerated at the dreaded Polunsky Unit in Livingstone Texas. This young man became a catalyst of change in my determination after I learnt that this very young, beautiful blonde blue eyed boy had no hope for the future. His future is certain death unless his legal representatives provide information that otherwise states this. In Revelations 11 there is mentioned the presence of two witnesses. Witnesses which will turn our current definition of humanity on its head. Those witnesses are predicted to return any moment and I believe NO HUMAN deserves to be robbed of this predicted closing of humanities suffering by a corrupt and misunderstood leadership. Please please help me spread the word of these two witnesses. These two witnesses may be the key to eliminating the Death Penalty in our World today. My research concludes that these two people a man and a woman will be joined by divine love and they together will bring peace and love back into humanity. Write to as many people as you can about these two witnesses so that those who have suffered under the current definition of humanity can be given hope that a New World is upon us. Encourage our leaders dear friends to help now contribute to a beautiful new world. A world that every man and woman who is incarcerated or is suffering on the outside will never want to leave. God is slowly making his presence known my friends and I know that soon we shall all know his truth - DIVINE LOVE - and its healing powers on the suffering which has become humanity. I know for a fact that his name is Nicolas and her name is Mary and her first child to another man is named CHRISTO.

I believe I know the identity of these two witnesses but the law of Australia restricts me from making this knowledge available to the people who need to hear it. Please write to Clinton Lee Young at the Polunsky Unit in Livingston Texas to ease experience on Death Row. Please write to as many as you possibly can and put hope in their souls that a New World - a better world will soon be awaiting them. It will be a world that they will never want to leave. Thank you for reading my words and Merry Merry Christmas - I believe the real St Nicolas is about to step forward. Love is here and it is slowly but surely beginning to radiate through our world. Just you wait and see.

If someone has murdered anyone, I think that they should not be given life. For Jesus said on the Cross, "God forgive them for their sins". Because in this day and age I think who ever elecutes anyone is a sinner too. I am not saying that it is right to murder anyone BUT I think that they should be given Life in prison and made to do some work eg make some for the Earthquake victums and think themselves lucky that they are now doing something good for the poor. And they can live with the guilty consious all they lives and if that is not bad enough what is?
